VENUE INTRODUCTION

Sporting over 150 years of live music history and anchoring the northern suburbs' heavy-hitting music circuit, the Smith St Hotel (fka The Gasometer) is a Collingwood institution that has spent years beating at the heart of Melbourne's live music scene. Far more than just a historic pub, the room has cultivated a reputation as a crucial stepping stone for fiercely independent local talent, while simultaneously serving as an intimate, high-energy tour stop for established national and international acts wanting to connect closely with their crowds.

The venue's undeniable drawcard is its spectacular bandroom architecture. Featuring a sweeping mezzanine and a breathtaking retractable roof, the 350-capacity space offers an unparalleled, open-air gig experience right in the inner city. This distinct multi-level viewing, combined with a dedicated approach to high-fidelity sound, means the Smith St Hotel consistently delivers an electric atmosphere for everything from heavy rock to late-night electronic acts, cementing it as a legendary staple of Victoria's entertainment landscape.

Behind the scenes, the venue is built to support a seamless gig day without losing its classic hospitality. Touring parties have access to a private, comfortable green room away from the main bar buzz, streamlined load-in points, and the convenience of a fully staffed pub kitchen. Designed to prioritise the performance experience for both the talent and the crowd, the Smith St Hotel remains an essential, unforgettable room.
